Question 10: Children of Divorced or Separated Parents

Because of the residency requirement, a child of divorced or separated parents is typically the qualifying dependent child of the custodial parent. However, the child may be treated as the qualifying dependent child of the noncustodial parent if all four of the following conditions are met:

1. The parents are divorced or legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance; are separated under a written separation agreement; or have lived apart at all times during the last 6 months of the year.
2. The parents provided more than half of the total support for the child for the year.
3. The child was in the custody of one or both parents for more than half the year.
4. The custodial parent follows the IRS "written declaration" rules releasing the dependency exemption to the noncustodial parent, and the noncustodial parent attaches all required documentation to the tax return for the calendar year of the tuition benefit.

Eligibility Terms and Definitions for Domestic Partner Tuition Program (DPTP)

1. Domestic Partner Tuition Program (DPTP) eligibility is extended to domestic partners of UA administrative, professional, faculty, university staff, and classified staff employees who are employed at 50% or more of full-time equivalence (FTE) and whose employment is expected to continue six (6) months or more; and dependent children of eligible domestic partners. Eligible employees must be employed on the first day of an academic semester or session in order to extend the DPTP for that semester or session to their partner and their dependent children. Eligible employees who terminate their employment or transfer to a non-eligible position prior to the first day of classes are no longer eligible to extend the DPTP program to their domestic partner and the partner's dependents; they will be responsible for paying full tuition costs and fees. Also eligible for the DPTP are the domestic partner/dependent children of a retired employee who has earned Official University Retirement Benefits from the University of Arizona. DPTP eligibility does not extend to university affiliates, employees who have been laid off, are on long-term disability, or the surviving domestic partner/dependents of a deceased employee. DPTP is not available for courses at NAU or ASU.
2. Definitions:

The term "domestic partner" for the purpose of program eligibility means two people who:

  - o Both currently share a primary residence, are in a relationship of mutual support, and declare that they intend to remain in such for the indefinite future;
  - o Submitted a Qualified Domestic Partner Affidavit before applying

The term "children" for the purposes of this form means the natural, adopted, or legally appointed child of the domestic partner. The term "dependent children" means children who are eligible to be claimed as a dependent of the domestic partner for federal tax purposes and who have not reached age thirty (30) as of the first day of the semester for which the tuition reduction is granted. The domestic partner may be required to provide proof of eligibility (birth certificate, tax forms, etc.) if their last name is different from the dependent child's last name.

3. In accordance with IRS code 151, a child is eligible to be claimed as a dependent for federal tax purposes if it is determined that the child meets all the following requirements for the calendar year in which DPTP is used:
